

(a) A typical AdSERP trial — scanpath + cursor + scroll

AdSERP at a glance

A re-analyzable eye-tracking dataset of real Web search behavior

|                |                                                                       |
|----------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Trials         | 2,776                                                          |
| Participants   | 47                                                             |
| Queries        | 60 transactional product searches                              |
| Eye tracker    | Gazepoint GP3 HD, 150 Hz                                       |
| Other channels | mouse cursor, scroll, full-page screenshots, ad bounding boxes |
| Reference      | Latifzadeh, Gwizdka &amp; Leiva (SIGIR 2025)                   |

Behavioral takeaway

62%

of trials show participants returning to an earlier result before clicking.